1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 24 and 29, drawn to compares a number of double words received in the incoming bit stream starting at the packet start indication with a first predetermined value, determining the incoming bit-stream to have an error when the number of double words received exceeds the first predetermined value, classified in class 386, subclass 95.
  - II. Claims 25-26 and 30-31, drawn to comparing a received block number order of received blocks in the incoming bit-stream with a predetermined order, determining the incoming bit-stream to have an error when the received block number order differs from the predetermined order, classified in class 375, subclass 137.
  - III. Claims 27 and 32, drawn to sequentially stores the video and audio blocks in respective sections of the memory; determines the incoming bit stream to have an error, returning to the beginning of the respective sections, classified in class 714, subclass 16.
  - IV. Claims 28 and 33, drawn to sequentially stores the video and audio blocks in respective sections of the memory; and determines the incoming bit stream to have an error, skipping to the beginning of the next respective section of the memory, classified in class 365, subclass 185.09.
2. Inventions I and II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct if they do not overlap in scope and are not obvious variants, and if it is shown that at least one subcombination is separately usable. In the instant case, subcombination I has separate utility such as compares a number of double words received in the incoming bit stream starting at the packet start indication with a first predetermined value, determining the incoming bit-stream to have an error when the number of double words received exceeds the first predetermined value. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

3. Inventions I and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct if they do not overlap in scope and are not obvious variants, and if it is shown that at least one subcombination is separately usable. In the instant case, subcombination I has separate utility such as compares a number of double words received in the incoming bit stream starting at the packet start indication with a first predetermined value, determining the incoming bit-stream to have an error when the number of double words received exceeds the first predetermined value. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

4. Inventions I and IV are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct if they do not overlap in scope and are not obvious variants, and if it is shown that at least one subcombination is separately usable. In the instant case, subcombination I has separate utility such as compares a number of double words received in the incoming bit stream starting at the packet start indication with a first predetermined value, determining the incoming bit-stream to have an error when the number of double words received exceeds the first predetermined value. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

5. Inventions II and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct if they do not overlap in scope and are not obvious variants, and if it is shown that at least one subcombination is separately usable. In the instant case, subcombination II has separate utility such as comparing a received block number order of received blocks in the incoming bit-stream with a predetermined order, determining the incoming bit-stream to have an error when the received block number order differs from the predetermined order. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

6. Inventions II and IV are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct if they do not overlap in scope and are not obvious variants, and if it is shown that at least one subcombination is separately usable. In the instant case, subcombination II has separate utility such as comparing a received block number order of received blocks in the incoming bit-stream with a predetermined order, determining the incoming bit-stream to have an error when the received block number order differs from the predetermined order. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

7. Inventions III and IV are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct if they do not overlap in scope and are not obvious variants, and if it is shown that at least one subcombination is separately usable. In the instant case, subcombination III has separate utility such as sequentially stores the video and audio blocks in respective sections of the memory; determines the incoming bit stream to have an error, returning to the beginning of the respective sections. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

The examiner has required restriction between subcombinations usable together. Where applicant elects a subcombination and claims thereto are subsequently found allowable, any claim(s) depending from or otherwise requiring all the limitations of the allowable subcombination will be examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. See MPEP § 821.04(a). Applicant is advised that if any claim presented in a continuation or divisional application is anticipated by, or includes all the limitations of, a claim that is allowable in the present application, such claim may be subject to provisional statutory and/or nonstatutory double patenting rejections over the claims of the instant application.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Daquan Zhao whose telephone number is (571) 270-1119. The examiner can normally be reached on M-Fri. 7:30 -5, alt Fri. off.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Tran Thai Q, can be reached on (571)272-7382. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is (571) 273-8300.
